

BUSH CITY BIOBLITZ AND THE NATUREWATCH NZ/INATURALIST ONLINE DATABASE

Lead coordinator	Tim Park, Wellington City Council 021 247 9739, tim.park@wcc.govt.nz
Other coordinator(s)	Leon Perrie, Te Papa
Workshop objective(s)	Come along to Te Papa's Bush City to learn the capabilities of NatureWatchNZ and the iNaturalist App. You will learn how to use the app and contribute data to a global biodiversity database. We will be doing a mini-bioblitz of this inner-city natural area and will try to record every species in the area including plants, insects, birds and fungi – and anything else living that turns up! The app suggests species based on the photos you upload and your identifications are verified by other citizen scientists.
Workshop date and time	Sunday April 8, 1pm – 4pm
Workshop location	Te Papa's Bush City – meet at the Red Gates Bar (between Te Papa's entrance and the waterfront – through the Red Gates!)
Max. number of participants	20
Cost	FREE
What to bring	Smartphone with iNaturalist app downloaded from Google Play store or Apple App store Please also create a free log in for naturewatch.org.nz
H&S	BYO Snacks/drinks, dress for the weather, bring sunscreen
Promotional photography	A photographer may attend part of the workshop to capture images for use in hard copy and web-based publications and social media channels primarily associated with citizen science, environmental management and biodiversity enhancement. It is the participant's responsibility to advise the workshop coordinator in advance if they do not wish to be photographed.